The People's Column

In Brazos county it appears that it is almost impossible to convict a violator of the Eighteenth Amendment, the prohibition law. Part of the blame may be attributed to our state laws, which are all in favor of the defendant; the officers and the courts are both handicapped seriously in enforcing the law. But all of the fault for the phenomenalness of securing a conviction in Brazos county for a violation of the prohibition law cannot be placed upon the law, but much of the blame should go to the citizens themselves. This law is as much of the organic law of the state as restrictions on murder and stealing, and should be enforced as such. In and near Bryan we have two educational institutions, Allen Academy and A. and M. College, the care for whose students we must take a certain degree of responsibility. In justice to these young boys, as well as our duty as good citizens who respect and revere the name and honor of their home county, we should be strict in our enforcement of this law. We must not fail to stamp out any condition that causes wealth to "accumulate" and men to "decay."

Farmers Grow Better Staple of Cotton It Is Said

Evidence that cotton farmers are manifesting greater interest in the production of better staple cotton as a result of the publication of estimates on the grade and staple length of cotton produced in Georgia and areas in Texas and Oklahoma last year is being received by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. In a communication just received at Washington, P. I. Barnes, in charge of the bureau's Atlanta cotton office, declares that "in talking to the head gin man of the Georgia Co-ops I was told our work the past season had stirred up a good deal of interest wherever gins had co-operated. In some sections new seed had been ordered and sold to the farmers at cost just to improve the staple in these sections. In one section 25,000 bushels had been distributed and orders for 20,000 bushels could not be filled for lack of good 1 1-16-inch staple seed. The co-ops are putting out better length staple seed where it is possible to do so, and from what they told me, everyone is co-operating and taking lots of interest in this work."

FARMERS MAKE PROTEST OF HOOVER TODAY

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—A throng of farmers protesting the nomination of Herbert Hoover stormed the Republican convention hall today and were prevented from entering the hall only by the threatening clubs of policemen. The throng was led by Edgar Bush, former Lieutenant Governor of Indiana.

FRENCH FAVOR HOOVER IN BET

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, June 13.—Never before in the history of American politics has a similar convention attracted so much interest in France as that of the republican party now in session at Kansas City. All the French newspapers carry long articles on the situation and the volume of cable matter received on the happenings and speculations surpass anything of this sort ever printed in France.

All classes of the population seemed interested. It was a dull day at the Enghein race track and one bookmaker—English-speaking—chalked up names that did not appear on the racing card—Hoover, favorite, 3 to 2; Dawes, 3 to 1; Coolidge, 5 to 1; Lowden, 7 to 1; Watson, 10 to 1; Goff, extreme outsider, 20 to 1.

City Manager Is No Clock Watcher

CITY MANAGER J. Bryan Miller can never be accused of watching the clock. Though he always is possessed with a first class appetite, the city manager yesterday was busily absorbed with the duties of his office and never noted when 12 o'clock came. One o'clock came and still he did not think about the time. At 2 o'clock he noticed the inadequate feeling in the gastronomic region and hurried to a cafe. The city manager is "snowed under" with work, to use a winter time phrase in hot weather.

REPUBLICANS SLYLY HURTI PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Sub-Committee Agrees on Law Enforcement Plank Substantially in Form Presented by Senator Borah; Would Pledge the Party to Observance

(By Associated Press)

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Postponing its day of decision on the ever fermenting farm question, the Republican national convention spent another session today perfecting its own organization and listening to the exhortations of some of its best spellbinders and twirling its thumbs while it waited in vain for the platform committee to conclude a 24-hour dispute and bring in a party platform. Both within and without the convention hall the voice of protest against President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill sought to make itself heard by party leaders. While the delegation of farm demonstrators was being denied admittance by the police, North Dakota delegates sought permission for Senator MacMaster, South Dakota, to address the convention, but temporary chairman Senator Fess ruled him out of order. The platform committee meantime was in such a tangle over the farm relief plank that it sent word that it probably would not be ready to report until tomorrow.

Twenty-two district delegates from Texas, hostile to Hoover, failed to gain permanent seats in the Republican convention today after a fight had been made from the floor to place them on the roll in place of Hoover pledged delegates.

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Hurtling prohibition enforcement plank problem, the Republican convention resolutions committee found itself blocked early today on the question of farm relief and after five hours adjourned at dawn to resume the discussion at a later day. The sub-committee agreed on law enforcement plank, substantially in the form presented by Senator Borah, Idaho, under its provisions the party would pledge itself to observance and vigorous enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

PAYING A GOVERNOR

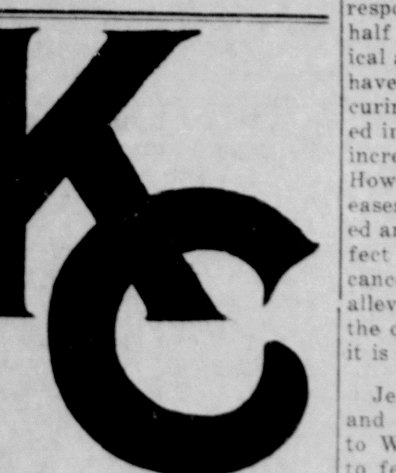

Governor Dan Moody of Texas, says the Los Angeles Times, is living on his salary of $4,000 a year. The pay is the same as was fixed by legislation more than fifty years ago, when Texas was comparatively poor and $4,000 would go as far as $15,000 would today. Now Texas' overseas commerce is greater than that of most kingdoms. Yet the salary she pays her governor is the smallest in the union except for the state of New Hampshire, Vermont and South Dakota—where $3,000 still is the figure. The governor of Pennsylvania is drawing $18,000 a year, which is the top of the market. Even little Rhode Island is paying $8,000 to her executive.

Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist and city builder, is visiting several Texas cities, being a guest of honor of civic organizations. In some of these cities he has offered to render his services in their development. He told his San Antonio audience recently that no better, safer investment could be made by the Alamo City's capitalists than to invest in the city's future. This same advice may apply to Bryan and most of the other towns and cities in Texas. There have been millions of dollars lost in speculation, but money invested in a city enjoying healthy, substantial growth almost always proves profitable. Most of our Texas cities now need to make permanent improvements, and these investments will not only be profitable to the investor but also to the entire citizenship of each city. If Jesse Jones can arouse the capitalists of Texas to invest in their home cities, he will have done a greater work than when he single-handedly secured the 1928 Democratic national convention for Houston.

Bryan has had three new church buildings constructed during the past year and another will be completed in the near future. With the United States an unusually prosperous nation it is the tendency (and this should be the tendency) to have wonderful edifices for the Christian religion. But as we look at these masterpieces of architecture, we should remember that our old time circuit riders, who used to roam over the country on horseback with the Bible in one hand and a shotgun for protection in the other, deserve much of the credit for the progress and prosperity of our churches.

Will Rogers, the humorist, facetiously a candidate for the presidential nomination, alighted on his head the other day in an airplane accident. He was unhurt. Will is not the only presidential candidate who will come down to earth before the Republican and Democratic conventions are over.

The Women's Federation has gone on record as in favor of teaching Bible in the public schools. The Bible is a fountain of information, a panacea for our ills, a source of inspiration unparalleled. If it were presented without placing upon any interpretations of any particular religion, no better course could be taught in our public schools.

AGRICULTURE FIRST

The following is an extract from the address of Henry Edwards of Tyler, editor of the Tyler Journal, before the joint meeting of the Texas and Arkansas Press Associations:

Everywhere throughout the South, with no considerable number of exceptions, the paramount industry—at least the industry that ought to be paramount—is that of agriculture. Your town and my town can be prosperous and have good business and enjoy those luxuries and unstinted necessities that prosperity brings only when agriculture is prosperous. And while agriculture for some decades has been diminishing in the relative volume it contributes to the nation's total trade, yet the big cities and the industrial districts and the financial centers, and every line of human endeavor are at their highest peaks of activity and of prosperity when the agriculture of the Nation is prosperous. As long as synthetic foods and the manufacture of human sustenance by pure chemical processes are only the dreams of scientists with vivid imagination, so long must agriculture supply the greatest human necessity—that of food. Then it follows that editors, not alone of the smaller towns but of the larger cities and great industrial centers as well, should not lose sight of things that effect the farms and orchards and the dairies and ranches of this land—and we mean by this not merely those problems of economics that confront farmers, but also those other concerns with which the farmer's life is bound up, namely his schools, his political relationships, his social progress and well-being, his civic opportunities and obligations, and his religious status. And yet notwithstanding these great considerations that so vitally affect the life and well-being of the nation's most essential class—at least most essential in the sense of being the most indispensable—the big papers of the country will give more space in any issue to sport news than they will give to the problems and news of agriculture in a whole week. When you go back home take your exchanges, one by one, and measure the amount of news of an agricultural nature—and add to that all matter of a semi-agricultural nature—and add to that all other matter that is even remotely related to these great problems of rural life. When you do this you will find that my first proposition is not without good grounds, and that most of us indeed do need to become rural-minded. We are not putting first things first. Both in our thinking and in our news columns we are putting things of major importance into places of minor significance.

The eyes of the nation today are upon Kansas City, where the Republican national convention meets. In Herbert Hoover the Republicans have a potential nominee who appears to be a popular choice; all of the other potential Republican nominees combined do not have the personal following of Hoover. He almost has enough votes pledged before the convention opens to assure his nomination. However, if he were nominated, he might not be a good vote getter in the capitalistic East and he has no particular appeal in the agricultural West. This year the Republicans are confronted with a cloud of scandal in a sky of suspicion, and their nominee, if he is to be successful, should not invite the finger of scorn. Hoover was a member of the cabinet under the late Warren G. Harding, which was the most corrupt in American history, and he is certain to have had knowledge of the illicit dealings. Hoover is the popular choice of his party but his nomination probably would spell disaster to the success of his party in November.

Dr. Harry A. Bunker, Jr., speaking before the American Psychiatric Association at its annual convention at Minneapolis, said that paralysis, which formerly was fatal within two or three years, now responds to treatment in more than half of the instances. The medical and other scientific professions have made remarkable progress in curing diseases, which have resulted in the span of human life being increased more than five years. However, there are still some diseases which it seems that our skilled and learned scientists could perfect a cure, one of which is the cancer. Science has done much to alleviate suffering and to change the complexion of life, but at that it is only in its infancy.

Jesse Jones, Houston capitalist and city builder, has been invited to Waco to coax their citizens into feeling good after their having come to the rescue of Baylor University in such a substantial way. Waco offers a splendid opportunity for a city builder.

Bryan and Brazos county friends extend congratulations to the Texas Association of Insurance agents in their choice in selecting Charles L. Duncan of Mount Pleasant as the new president. Mr. Duncan is a member of the board of directors of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and is well known in Brazos county. The association honors itself and gives prestige to the entire insurance fraternity by choosing for its leader Charles L. Duncan.

Judge Gainer Announces for State Senator

Judge Charles S. Gainer of Bryan has entered the race for State Senator from the 14th Senatorial District composed of the counties of Brazos, Robertson, Burleson, Lee, Bastrop and Washington. He is one of the well known citizens of Brazos county and has an extensive acquaintance throughout the district. He will make an active campaign in the several counties of the district prior to the July Democratic primary to meet as many of the people as possible, to acquaint them with his views on the public issues of the day, and at the same time to give the voters an opportunity to know more of the man who is asking their support for this most honorable and important position.

Judge Gainer is a young man in the full strength and vigor of manhood, has definite and pronounced convictions on all questions and meets every issue face to face without sidestepping or equivocation. He has had legislative experience in the Lower House of the Texas Legislature and is honored by the people with election to the Senate, he will not go to Austin lacking in that experience so necessary for effective service.

He is an advocate of good roads believing there is no one thing that adds more to the prosperity and development of the country as well as to the comfort and convenience of the people. He favors safeguarding the construction of our highways in every possible way in order that there be no reckless and wasteful expenditure of the people's money. He favors the R. S. Sterling plan of building a system of State highways as safe, economical, fair to all and burdensome to none.

He favors ample provision for the rural schools of Texas to the end that the children of the rural districts may have, as far as possible, educational facilities on a parity with those afforded the children of the towns and cities.

He is the friend of "higher education" and favors liberal appropriations for the support, maintenance and development of the state supported institutions of learning, that they may continue to grow and expand until they shall reach the high standard set for them by their founders. Especially does he favor the liberal support of the State Experiment Station system, and the Extension Service of the A. and M. College, those two supreme branches of agricultural education that are rendering such heroic service in helping the farmers, in a practical way, to solve their problems. He wants it known of all men that he is the friend of education, believing with all the emphasis of his being in that Biblical injunction—"Where there is no vision the people perish."

He is not unmindful of the great need of both a reclamation and conservation system for the soils of Texas—our lands forming the basis of all values. All his life he has been interested in Brazos river plantations, has passed through several of the great floods that devastated that rich area, and through these experiences was brought face to face with the urgent need of protection. He favors proceeding with the work of reclamation and conservation as fast as the finances of the state will permit.

He is not a "plunger" in the expenditure of the state's money, and yet is not what might be termed a "retrencher." He believes in reasonable economy in the administration of the affairs of state and would save every penny possible to be saved without crippling the public service.

Judge Gainer is aggressive, has the courage of his convictions, and by his experience as a legislator and the experiences of his life, is admirably equipped to render a great service for the people of the 14th District in the Senate of Texas.

Business Change Here Thursday

Pete Palasota has purchased the interests of Frank Patronella in the Union Barber Shop, the deal being consummated Thursday afternoon.

Frank Patronella sold his interests in the shop to enable him to devote his full time to a filling station that he is opening up next to the Western Public Service Co.

The Union Barber Shop is one of the most popular shops in the city and Mr. Palasota says that the same policies will continue in the future.

At every meeting the City Commission announces that bids will be taken or have been taken for more civic improvements. There is no disposition on the part of this body to be self-satisfied, but it always is trying to make the city better and better.

Edgar Peters Is Recovering From an Injury

Edgar Peters, assistant tax collector, who was painfully injured in practice before the First Baptist-Methodist baseball game this week, is recovering rapidly.

Peters, who was hit in the mouth when the ball took a bad hop, had to have five stitches taken. He was the first and only casualty of the Bryan Sunday School Baseball League season.

James B. Lowe Dies Here Today

James B. Lowe, aged 69 years, 11 months and 21 days, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. A. Adams in this city Friday, June 8, at 5 o'clock a. m. after a lingering illness. More than a year ago Mr. Lowe suffered a stroke of paralysis, and has been in very feeble health since that time. In the home of his daughter Mrs. T. A. Adams of this city, surrounded by the loving family, and with kind neighbors and good friends rendering every care and thoughtful attention within their power, his weeks and months of suffering were made as easy as human nursing can render pain. God's hand touched the sufferer this Friday morning at the hour above stated, and he is at rest.

Two daughters and two sons survive him: Mrs. T. A. Adams of Bryan, Mrs. T. Stockton of Pecos, S. E. Lowe of Stanton, and J. K. Lowe of Mart; also one brother, Edward Lowe of Mart and several grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Adams in Bryan, Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. R. S. Marshall, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bryan, after which the body will be shipped over the Missouri Pacific lines to Mart, where interment will be made in the Prairie Hill cemetery.

The many friends of the deceased and of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Adams and family in Bryan, extend heartfelt sympathy in this dark hour of bereavement.

Public School Leaders to Meet at A. & M. Soon

COLLEGE STATION, June 8.—Supervision and improvement of teaching will be the general theme of the fifth annual conference of county school superintendents to be held at the A. & M. College of Texas July 30-August 3, inclusive, during the nineteenth annual Farmers Short Course. Superintendent H. L. Eger, Georgetown, will preside. Mrs. K. K. Robbins of Cameron is secretary.

Discussions have been scheduled in which some of the leading county school superintendents of the state will deal with present educational problems. Among the topics to be discussed are "The Place of Educational Tests and Measurements in Rural School Supervision," "Supervision of Reading in the Rural Schools," "Improvement of Teaching in One-Room Schools," and numerous others.

President T. O. Walton of A. & M. College will welcome the superintendents. Among those who will address the conference is S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction. Others on the program include: W. L. Hughes, College Station, president of the Texas State Teachers' Association; Supt. L. A. Wood, Waco; Mrs. Claire F. Pollard, superintendent, Bay City; Supt. M. H. Weinert, Seguin; Dr. A. W. Birdwell, Nacogdoches; Dr. A. S. Blankenship, East Texas State Teachers College, Commerce, and others.

OFF TO KINGSVILLE

Mrs. J. L. Brock has gone to Kingsville for a short vacation trip. She will be in the Tex-Mex Presbyterian school. Mrs. Brock is a member of the board of this school and was one of the committee that created the school, hence she is very vitally interested in its growth and development. Friends are hoping that the gulf coast breezes will bring back to Mrs. Brock her usual good health. For the past few weeks Mrs. Brock has been quite ill.

CRADLE OF LIBERTY

HOUSTON, June 8.—Near Houston, scene of the Democratic National Convention in June, visitors will find the famed San Jacinto battlegrounds, now a park. On that battlefield on April 21, 1836, Gen. Sam Houston led his small band of Texans, inspired to heroism by memories of the Alamo, to victory over the Mexican army, freeing Texas from Mexican domination.

Bearing Buds
Those passing the library might be interested in observing a little native pecan tree, on which there was set two years ago a paper shell bud and now bearing some 45 nuts. In the back yard of D. L. Wilson's home there is another bud of the same age which set more than 100 pecans this year.

The Cotton Plant
"What a royal plant it is! The world waits in attendance on its growth. The shower that falls on its leaves is heard around the earth. The sun that shines on it is tempered by the prayers of all the people. The frost that chills it and the dew that descends from the stars are noted and the trespass of a little worm on its green leaf is more to England than the advance of the Russian army on her Asian outposts. Its fiber is current in every bank. It is gold from the instant it puts forth its tiny shoot, and when loosing its fleece to the sun, it floats a banner that glorifies the field of the humble farmer. It is the heritage that God gave to his people forever as their own when he arched our skies, established our mountains, girt us about with the ocean, loosed the breezes, tempered the sunshine and measured the rain—ours and our children's forever!"—Henry W. Grady.

Must Enrich Soil
In making the survey trying to find a master farmer in Brazos county, many observations were made that should prove helpful to all. In one instance there was a farmer whose score ran high, but whose total score was reduced because he failed to plant legumes on his farm. If it is essential to the best farming practice to plant peas, beans, etc., to enrich our soil with nitrogen and humus, then this matter should be given attention. It is yet time to plant peas for soil improvement, and in doing so, leave a check so as to show good results; otherwise you will be guessing.

Need Implements
Perhaps no other factor retards the progress of farming of today more than a lack of adequate implements, plows, harrows, discs, stalk cutters, feed grinders, and pulverizers. A trip to the Chambers-Wilson farm on Thompson creek should serve to show the most skeptical the advantages of power farming and an adequate supply of farm machinery. Here one will see a wilderness turned into a veritable beauty spot growing farm crops and truck crops in great profusion. Incidentally, one can also see the promise of a great pecan industry. Buds that were put out last year are already bearing nuts, but it will also be observed that the trees have not been neglected. Eternal vigilance is the price of success on any farm, yesterday today and forever.

Council to Meet
Next Saturday is the regular time for the meeting of the 4-H County Club Council. It is hoped that a full attendance will be had.

Canning Program
That the year's canning program be a success is one of our greatest desires. Food preservation programs have been given in each of the Women's Clubs. That interest has been created is proved by the fact that club members are not only doing their usual canning but are calling for demonstrations so that they may learn to can vegetables in tin. As an example, Mrs. J. P. Gilpin of Kurten, sent in an emergency call for help in canning beans. Neighbors and the home agent came to her rescue and canned three dozen cans of snap beans. Each woman learned all the processes of the canning so that this trained team can go ahead without further assistance when they get their new sealer.

Time Soon Up
Half of the year will be gone June 30. Will you have half of your club work complete? Remember a girl in each club wins a short course trip for the best and most complete work up to that time. All required sewing should be complete and the record book filled out to date.

Sewing Exhibit
An exhibit of first year Brazos county sewing work was sent to the biennial convention at San Antonio last week. The work sent was made by the following 4-H girls: Helen James, Annette Morrell and Frances Morrell of Woodville; Ida Powers and Estelle Murray of Steep Hollow; Helen Bekoski and Mary Olga Berger of Leonard.

Club Rally Day
It is only a short time to June 30th which is club rally day. At that time winners of the A. & M. Short Course scholarships will be announced. The high point girl in each club will win. Remember every phase of your club work is to be considered. "Make hay while the sun shines."

To Give Prize
One A. & M. Short Course scholarship is to be awarded to the girl who wins in the County Appropriate Dress Contest. The winner will then compete in the State Contest. Girls in the contest are making a school costume which will be judged on suitability, design and workmanship.

Two In One
J. A. Zemanek of the Rye community is planting peas in his corn middles, the corn being in full silk and tassel. In this way there is no danger of the peas taking up moisture needed by the corn, and yet if the seasons are favorable the peas will make a good crop after the corn has fruited, thus putting needed nitrogen and humus in the land. These farmers who plant peas regularly are the ones whose soil fertility is improving instead of being depleted year by year.

Use Certified Seed
Quite a number of farmers have used certified potato seed this year, and all of them are loud in their praise of the certified seed over the ordinary potato seed usually sold in Bryan. Tom Benbow of Tabor states that one row of certified seed made as much as three rows of the other. Lynn Sample will plant nothing but certified seed, saying that there is no comparison in yields. Our seed dealers should bear these things in mind when putting in a supply of potato seed for next year.

Watch Feed Crop
Don't forget that feed crop. There is plenty of time to plant grain sorghums, peas, Sudan, peanuts, etc. A good feed crop means more for the prosperity of the county than a big cotton crop produced at a cost greater than it sells for.

Capitol of Missouri
Was Once In City of Marshall, Texas

Even among Texans, there are few who know that the capitol of Missouri was once maintained for a period of two years in the Lone Star State. Such, however, is a fact which is attested to by E. Key, president of the First National Bank of Marshall, whose mother's home in that city, Governor Reynolds, the secessionist executive of Missouri, occupied with his staff as the gubernatorial mansion.

The war between the States was responsible for the exodus of the Missouri governor and his staff in to Texas. Anticipating that his State eventually would enter the family fold of the Confederacy, Governor Reynolds, who was of this governmental persuasion, in 1862 and the state before advancing Federal troops, bringing with him the official seal and the members of his official family. Since Missouri remained in the Union and another Governor was placed in its chair, the official acts of Governor Reynolds subsequently were declared null and void; but this does not mitigate the fact that the fugitive governor was the duly elected chief executive of his State, and that his or-

Dr. John Barcus Dies Tuesday at Ft. Worth Home

FORT WORTH, June 13.—Beginning and closing his career as a minister in the Central Texas conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Cleburne, Dr. John M. Barcus, D.D., 67, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Cleburne, died this morning at a Fort Worth hospital.

Doctor Barcus joined the conference in November, 1882, when that organization met at Cleburne and was appointed to the Mount Calm circuit, Waco district, by Bishop Linus Parker, who was presiding over the session. From this, his first charge, to his final appointment by Bishop John M. Moore at the recent session of the conference in Fort Worth, Doctor Barcus served continuously in the Central Texas conference.

Doctor Barcus died from an attack of spinal meningitis caused by a brain abscess which ruptured, according to an autopsy held by attending physicians. He had been ill in the hospital here since May 28, having occupied his pulpit the previous day.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Fort Worth at the First Methodist Church.

Brazos Beet Best

C. M. Risinger of Steep Hollow brought to the Eagle office today as fine a beet and Bermuda onion as we have seen. The beet weighed 5 pounds and 14 ounces and is a fine table vegetable, tender and sweet, said Mr. Risinger. Mr. Risinger planted his garden in February and has a splendid one. Besides having all that the family can use he has some to market.

ABOUT BLACKLEG

County Agent Beason was called to the I. M. Cook farm Thursday to assist in vaccinating cattle against blackleg. Mr. Cook had lost one fine Jersey calf, but when the carcass was found in the pasture decomposition was so great that it could not be determined definitely whether or not the disease was blackleg. As a measure of safety, Mr. Cook had all his cattle under two years old vaccinated.

ders, decrees and proclamations from Marshall bore the stamp of authority.

Mr. Key, who was then a lad of ten years, recalls that his mother, Mrs. Mary Key, was not then occupying the family home on the southwest corner of Bolivar and Crockett streets and arrangements were made to domicile Governor Reynolds and his staff in the Key home.

Executive offices were established in a house directly across the street owned by Judge Asa Willie, a member of the Supreme Court of Texas, who had recently moved to Galveston. In this temporary capitol the governor's office and the various departments of state were maintained, until the close of the war ended Governor Reynolds' residence in the Lone Star State.

The so-called governor's mansion and the equally disputable capitol then were returned to their owners by the Confederacy which had borne the expenses of maintenance.

Both of these historic houses in the old exclusive residential section of Marshall, still are in fine state of preservation, and are at present occupied. Mrs. Dudley Crawford, a relative of Key's lives in the old time gubernatorial mansion and the house formerly occupied by the Missouri governor's executive offices has been for a number of years the home of Miss Lucretia Hill.—East Texas Mag-nolene.

Hood's and Green's Brigades Reunion Is Postponed; A. & M. Ex-Students Thank Local C. of C.

Hood's and Green's brigades will meet in Bryan Tuesday and Wednesday, July 10 and 11, instead of June 20 and 21, it was announced today at the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce. This change was made because the secretaries of these brigades could not attend. This report was made by Mrs. Lee J. Rountree at the meeting this morning.

E. J. Jenkins, chairman of the entertainment and finance committee, reported a new member, Thos. Goggan & Bros., A. D. Bartow, manager.

The manager reported for the advertising and soliciting committee that eighteen advertising and twenty-one soliciting propositions had been turned down.

A letter from E. E. McQuillen, secretary of the Association of Former Students, was read:

"Whereas, the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce has during the past year so wonderfully co-operated with the officials of our institution, and whereas:

They have recently had a motion picture made, dealing with the life and service of our institution, and

Whereas, through the years they have been among the staunchest of our friends and supporters; therefore, be it resolved by the association of former students of A. & M. College, that we extend this organization our warmest thanks and make known to them our deep gratitude.

A. M. Waldrop, chairman of the trade extension committee, reported that the two large signs to be placed at the north and south end of the county on Highway No. 6 were now being made and would be placed in a few days.

Dean F. C. Bolton addressed the meeting on the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and reported a splendid talk made by E. H. Astin, director of this organization, and also chairman of the convention committee for Bryan in 1929.

J. Bryan Miller, reported that the city commission will meet today and pass a resolution on paving project from Western Public Service Co. to J. B. Stevenson's home and from Twenty-sixth to Twenty-seventh street on Washington Avenue. When this is done work will begin.

The secretary reported on his trip to Dallas on the moving picture proposition. He found great interest in the Dallas Chamber of Commerce on the convention to be held in Bryan in 1929. Director John Boswell of the development service stated that Dallas would challenge Houston in a contest to see which city would send the largest crowd.

The following were present: N. B. Allen, R. V. Armstrong, F. C. Bolton, W. H. Cole, J. N. Dulaney, Tyler Haswell, J. Webb Howell, W. S. Howell, John M. Lawrence, W. I. McCulloch, J. D. Martin, J. Bryan Miller, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, M. F. Vitopil, and A. M. Waldrop.

LEE CORTEMEGLIA PLACED
UNDER $3,000 BOND AFTER HIS ARREST

Lee Cortemeglia, who was arrested yesterday afternoon near Bryan Junction on a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor has been placed under $3,000 bond, while a sheriff's posse seized 75 gallons of whiskey, 50 gallons of wine, and two 50-gallon copper stills on his farm. The stills and liquor are now in the local jail.

The sheriff's posse was composed of Sheriff J. H. Reed, Deputy Lon Baker, W. S. Martin, and K. T. Tillis.

Sheriff Reed said they drove up to Cortemeglia's home late yesterday afternoon and told him that they had a warrant to search his place for liquor. Cortemeglia replied: "You're welcome to search."

Sheriff Reed asked: "Have you any liquor here?"

"Plenty of it," he answered.

"Where is it?" inquired the sheriff.

"The whiskey is in the house and the stills are in the barn," reported Cortemeglia.

Then Cortemeglia accompanied the officers over the place, and in a courteous manner pointed out the liquor and stills.

He made no resistance to being arrested.

Organization of Farm Women Need is Urged

The great undone club work in America today is the organization of our farm women for service to themselves, their homes, their communities and their country, according to Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude.

"We've got 6,500,000 farm women in this country who need just a woman like that to take hold of them," Mrs. Warner said. Mrs. Warner has spent her life in the interest of the farm women of Texas.

"The great undone club work in America today and especially in Texas is the organization of our farm women for greater service to themselves, their homes, their communities and their country," Mrs. Warner continued.

"The greatest waste in this Nation is that of the unorganized talent and power of our farm women. If they were organized as thoroughly as our city women and their hearts and hands functioning in unison for the welfare of their home communities, they would in time do more farm relief, rural education, civic righteousness and home improvement than all our legislators will ever do and it wouldn't cost the Government a cent, for women are used to serving their country freely."

"Our farm women have been overlooked long enough. The time and conditions are now at their best for this harvest of farm women's organizations into the great body of women workers in the general federation. And I tell you the federation needs the balancing power and the democratic spirit the farm women would bring to it. The farm women need the social companionship and spiritual inspiration the general federation would bring them."

Brazos Farmers Are Diversifying

Brazos county farmers are practicing diversification. One of these progressive farmers was in Bryan today trading with our merchants. "Crops are fine, corn prospects the best I have seen for years," said R. L. Foster of Steep Hollow. Mr. Foster owns his own farm. He has 16 acres planted to cotton, 18 acres to corn, 2 acres to peanuts, 3 acres to sorghum. Added to these farm products he has a field of dewberries, Mayberries and blackberries with a young orchard of 300 trees that will be bearing next year. Fine chickens, cows and hogs with a good vegetable garden furnish the living for the family with a small surplus to sell.

Miss Alta Gayle Weds W. H. McCorkle

A wedding which found attractiveness in its simplicity occurred Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock at Walnut Street Church of Christ, when Miss Alta Gayle became the bride of W. H. McCorkle, Harvey Scott, pastor of the church, officiating in the presence of a small group of friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Gayle of Bryan, formerly of Sherman, and niece of Mrs. Eugene Sherman, 406 North Ely Street. She was graduated from Sherman High School with the class of '24, later removing with her parents to Bryan.

Mr. McCorkle is a member of the faculty of Texas A. and M. College at Bryan, being instructor of physics.

Following their honeymoon to St. Louis and Little Rock, Mr. and Mrs. McCorkle will visit the former's home in Iowa City, Iowa, later returning to Bryan to reside. Preceding the wedding the bridal pair and the bride's mother, Mrs. Garnett Gayle, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shoemaker. Suggesting the approaching nuptials, the dining table was centered with a bride and groom in miniature amid a bank of vari-colored flowers. The rooms of the Shoemaker home were also abundantly adorned in flowers.—Sherman Democrat.

Peanuts Profitable In Comanche County Why Not In Brazos

D. M. Russell of DeLeon, Comanche county, superintendent of public schools at DeLeon, is here attending summer school at A. and M. College. This is Superintendent Russell's second summer at A. and M.

"DeLeon and its trade territory receives more from its peanut crop than from its cotton crop, and about the same amount of acreage is planted to both crops," said Mr. Russell.

"The present crop is a most profitable one and DeLeon is becoming the center of this industry. We have a peanut mill that puts every bit of the peanut into marketable value. Peanut oil, butter, candy and other products are manufactured and the peanut meal and hay has been found to be as desirable for feed as cotton seed meal and alfalfa," said Mr. Russell.

"The west atmospheric conditions are ideal for the curing of peanuts, we never lose a crop. If that condition could be met in Brazos county I see no reason why Brazos county farmers would not find peanuts more profitable than cotton."

State Cement Plant May Be Built-Walthall

Austin, June 11.—Erection of a state cement plant looked possible Friday for the first time, although the Fortieth legislature visioned such a project as feasible, R. B. Walthall, chairman of the state board of control said.

Walthall was notified by the city of Los Angeles that it built a plant with daily capacity of 1000 barrels for $500,000. This information reached him after all other sources thus far interviewed estimated the cost at from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000, figures too high for the state to consider.

The Fortieth legislature instructed the board to look into and report on the practicability of a proposal that the state manufacture its own cement.

Old-Fashioned Revival Services Get Results

Rev. J. P. King, missionary for Creath-Brazos Baptist Association, is holding revival services at an arbor 3 miles south of Plantersville on the Plantersville Magnolia Highway. He is assisted in the singing by Hassell Halbert of Waller. "We are having an old fashioned revival, not even a musical instrument to lead the singing, but we are getting results. Twenty-five additions to the church already," said Rev. King.

Dallas Wins State Democratic Meet

(By Associated Press)

WACO, June 12.—Dallas was selected as the site of the state Democratic convention September 11 by the state Democratic executive committee which met this morning at the Raleigh Hotel. Amarillo, Austin, Brownsville and Waco were other cities bidding for the meeting.

A dual attempt was made in the session to require all candidates to pledge their support of the Democratic ticket throughout. Judge C. G. Krueger led this movement, directing his remarks mainly at Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas.

Judge Krueger's motion to require all candidates to vote the straight Democratic ticket was tabled by a vote of 19 to 6.

Following its defeat, Winbourne Peace of Temple moved to amend the resolution certifying candidates' names with the inclusion of this phrase:

"No candidate's name shall be certified who does not furnish the secretary his pledge to support the nominees of the Democratic party."

Ed Howard of Wichita Falls followed his second to the above amendment with these words: "It is a crime to let people like Tom Loe get up at a Democratic convention and say he will not support Democratic nominees unless it suits him."

This amendment also was defeated.

W. A. Keeling, former attorney general, offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, that all white Democrats who are qualified voters under the constitution and laws of Texas and who subscribe to statute pledge 3110 of the revised civil statutes of Texas and none other, be allowed to participate in the primaries of July 28 and August 25."

The executive committee also passed a resolution extending welcome to the national Democratic committee and national Democratic convention which meets at Houston soon.

Kazmeier Lauded For Showing of Hens in Contest

The report of the eleventh Texas National Egg Laying Contest at College Station for the seventh month, May 1 to 31, shows that F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan poultry dealer, had hens that made a remarkable record.

The report contains this official comment:

"F. W. Kazmeier owned two of the perfect birds and a third bird missed on the last of the month. No breeder has yet had three perfect birds in a month as was the case last year."

Master Robert Jones Is Second Hawkshaw of City

Dawshaw, the detective, has nothing whatever on Master Robert Jones, aggressive and precocious young son of R. E. Jones of the Exchange Barber Shop. Master Robert is the official mascot of the Bryan Sunday School Baseball League. The mascot's duties in this league run more to chasing baseballs than to bringing luck.

In one of the games last week a ball, which had been hit into foul territory, disappeared. In the distance Robert thought he saw a little negro boy running off with the baseball.

All little negro boys are supposed to look alike, but this Son of Ham made an indelible appearance in the active young mind of Robert. The next day Robert saw the negro boy at the park and by using the third degree on him, made him confess to the pilfering. Master Robert then told President Will Poindexter about the confession, and a few minutes later the ball had been returned to the premises.

Mrs. Hattie Bell and Miss Ennie Zohner of Cuero visited in the home of J. W. Burrows last week. Mrs. Carl Outlaw and children of Houston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Steele over the week end.

Mrs. Della Crouch and daughter, Vivian, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Downs for a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sawyer of Houston spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sawyer. Their many friends are glad to see and welcome them home if only for a short visit.

Houston Smith, who has been attending A. and M. College the last term, has returned to his home at San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jameson of Decatur attended A. and M. commencement, Mr. Jameson being a graduate of that institution. Also from Decatur were Mr. and Mrs. Cates, who had a son graduate this year and another finish his second year. Mr. and Mrs. Jameson also visited home folks while here.

The new filling station being installed at the old Edwards Store by Messrs. Fuqua, Tolbert and South adds much to the looks of our little city. We wish them success in their new venture.

Andrew Moore and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Powers and baby of Arcadia are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Symms.

The plate barbecue for the benefit of the M. E. Church Friday night should be well patronized and we are sure all who attend will be glad they came.

The Crawford Store is being repainted and Millican may be returning to an era of prosperity.

A barbecue supper will be given at the Methodist church at Millican Friday night. Admission will be 50 cents. Candidates will speak, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Sallie Anderson Celebrates Eightieth Birthday With Dinner

KING'S HIGHWAY, June 8.—On Tuesday, June 5, at 2:30 p. m., friends and neighbors of Mrs. Sallie Anderson met at the home of her daughter, Mrs. V. C. Bush, and paid their respects on her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Anderson was born June 5, 1848 in Hines county, Miss., coming to Texas where she was seventeen years old with her father, Thos. Holbrook, who settled in Robertson county. On December 3, 1870, she was married to Polk Anderson by the Rev. Menefee of the Missionary Baptist church, at the age of eighteen, but joined the Christian church at Macy in 1887, being baptized by the Rev. B. P. Sweeney. One other member of the church, baptized the same day, was present at the party, Mrs. Wm. McDonald. These two old church members told of some of the older customs and how as young people the revivals were attended and young people were "headed for the bow-wows" same as now, according to the preachers although as Mrs. Anderson said, we were only having fun and did nothing wrong. She loved to ride horseback—side saddle—and was never afraid of a horse.

Her husband's father, Polk Anderson, settled a large part of Robertson county, Anderson lake being named for him. Mrs. Anderson has six living children, thirty-five grandchildren and nineteen great grandchildren. The children are: Mathew Anderson, Mrs. B. W. Hardin, Mrs. L. W. White, Henry Anderson, R. L. Anderson, Mrs. V. C. Bush. Those present were: Mrs. Wm. McDonald, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Mrs. A. D. Kopetsky, Mrs. M. Stroud, Mrs. Grant McDonald, Mrs. V. C. Bush, Mrs. B. W. Hardin, Mrs. R. L. Laud, Mrs. Roy Hardin, Mrs. L. F. Mangis, Misses Reba Kelly, Mary Kopetsky, Marguerite Stroud, Grace McDonald, Zenelle Bush and Ethel Mangis. The refreshment table was beautifully decorated with cape jasmines and candles.

At 8:30 on Tuesday night, friends of Albert Kopetsky met at the home of Mattison Corgey to welcome him to his old home in Macy. Albert has a position with a steamship company in Jacksonville, Fla., and is home on vacation.

Fred Hale Is Tabor Speaker Friday Night

Fred Hale, swine specialist of the Experiment Station, was the principal speaker at the Tabor community meeting Friday night, substituting as "pinch hitter" in place of Dr. S. W. Bilsing who was away from College and could not return in time to fill his appointment on a sort of short course program dealing with insect control.

Mr. Hale stated that the chief concern of the farmer should be the economical production of pork, and that this required a close study of the several factors entering into the raising of hogs, such as breeding, feeding, disease control, marketing, etc. He stated that just now the Experiment Station was devoting a good deal of attention to the feeding of cotton seed meal, since this product was available in immense quantities in Texas. Attention was called to the fact that some in last year's litter cost produced pork at less than five cents a pound by feeding a balanced ration. He stated that the farmer should study market trends so as to avoid marketing hogs when price levels were lowest, as was the case last fall. He gave a cordial invitation to all to visit the Experiment Station.

Following Mr. Hale's address the local people put on a one act play featuring the old time square dance, music for same being furnished by Messrs. John Barnes, Will Conrad, A. C. Williams, "fiddlers"; George Harrison, guitar, and Roland Crenshaw accompanying on piano. The six couples gracefully skipped the light "fantastic" toe to the tune of "Sally Gooden" and "Turkey in the Straw", reminding many of the older people present of the days of long ago.

H. E. Fouraker of Dallas delighted the audience with a number of banjo solos, the repeated encores attesting the popularity of his music.

Miss Mary Locke, master of ceremonies, announced that on the second Friday night in July, according to their usual custom, the meeting would be given over to all the candidates who would make exhibition of their oratorical powers, a prepared supper with hot coffee furnishing all the needed stimulus for the occasion.
